THE NEXT GENERATION

STRENGTH, VISION, LEGACY

‘The Next Generation’ centers around the corroboree symbol, representing the gathering of Elders and younger generations in a shared celebration of culture, connection, and legacy. The corroboree is a powerful expression of unity and community, where stories are shared, traditions are honored, and the spirit of togetherness is celebrated. It reflects the heart of NAIDOC Week showcasing how the wisdom of our Ancestors guides us to strengthen the path for future generations.

The vibrant, celebratory colours echo the joy and pride of our people, embodying the richness and resilience of Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander cultures. The radiating lines and circular patterns signify the interconnectedness of all generations, with the ripple effect symbolizing the enduring impact of shared knowledge and respect. This design is a tribute to the ongoing journey of cultural preservation and the strength that comes from standing together.
